CORPSE ON THE PILOT

Fast Southern Passenger Train Runs Into Funeral Procession, Killing Four.

COFFIN BROKEN TO SPLINTER

Mules Drawing Yehicle Become Unmanageable, and After Pulling Wagoh to Track Refused to Budge.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch. SALISBURY, N. C., Nov. 2.—The Southern's vestibule, No. 39, yesterday morning ran into a funeral procession at Glass a small station about seventeen miles south of this city, and killed four per-ens. The dead are: John Key, Benjamin Tippet, Daniel Weaver and Miss Lou Townsend, all of whom were inmates of the Cabarrus County Home.

The party was traveling in a wagon with Weaver as driver and were conveying the remains of Mrs. Kate Lewis, another inmate of the home, who had died the day before, to a burying ground, a short distance away. Two mules were litted to the wagon and when the whistle of the fast train sounded the animals became unmanageable and ran upon the crossing and refused to move beyond.

The engine plowed through the wagon, killing all of the occupants and tearing to pieces the coffin containing the corpse. Engineer Tyler Hanes, who was running the train, saw the mules run upon the track, but his engine was so near and running at such speed that he could not stop.

when the train was finally brought to a stop, the corpse of Mrs. Lewis was found on the pilot of the engine and another dead body on the running board, while the fragments of the others who were killed, were to be seen scattered hither and thither, all being frightfully multi-and thither, all being frighting murilated.

It is said by some, who witnessed the scene afterwards, that one body was found lodged in the piece of the coffin, which had been demolished.

The wagon was torn into atoms, but the mules were seen going across fields at a remarkably rapid rate unhurt.

It is said that Weaver; who was driving the wagon, was deaf and that he failed to see the approaching train. The dead bodies, after being placed side by side in the depot at the station, were ghastly to look upon. Very little blood was seen, as all of the bodies were nothing more than skin and bone.

It is believed that Russell and Hoard, of the King's Mountain police, have captured the burglar who robbed the bank at Forest City, securing $2,000, five days ago. Following up a clue, they met him in the road near Wright's Ferry, S. C. Russell ordered him to throw up his hands, when the burglar reached for his gun and began firing. Both men returning the fire, the burglar fell, his legs and sides pierced with shot. On his person were found several explosives. The man's injuries are probably fatal.

NEGROES ARRESTED.

Prisoners Sent to Work on County Roads-Bank Cases.

County Roads—Bank Cases.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

GREENSBORO, N. C., November 2—

An important arrest was made by the police here this morning of three professional negro thieves in a negro suburb of the city known as Dublin. The men give their names as Jim Williams, of Trenton, N. J.; Carson Coggins, of Troy, N. Y., and Earle Sharpe, of Rock Hill, S. C. Saturday night a freight car was broken open and several boxes of shoes and dry goods stolen.

The negroes were arrested, taken to the goods stolen.

The negroes were arrested, taken to the lock-up, and were tried before the Mayor this afternoon, and in default of ball were sent to jail.

The sherinf took twenty prisoners to the county road force this morning, that being the "umber sentenced to hard labor fort "various offences by Judge Allen last week.

The grand jury Saturday recorded that being the "umber sentenced to hard labor for 'various offences by Judge Allen last week.

The grand jury Saturday reported that they had thoroughly examined all the county offices and found everything in good condition. They strongly recommended the building of a workhouse by the county for the confinement and employment of boys and women who are convicted of violating the law, many of whom are now sent to the county chain gang to work and associated with hardened criminals.

Buperfor Court for the trial of civil cases began this morning, to last for one week. What are known as the Bank of Ouliford cases were called this morning. Judge Allen said that he understood that the lawyers and litigants were parleying with a view to a compromise, and that it might save time to take a recess, so that a full conference might be had between all parties, and court adjourned at 3 o'clock. The Bank of Guilford cases are twenty-five suits brought by stockholders of the Bank of Guilford against the Board of Directors of the bank for damages on account of negligence on the part of the directors. The suits involve about $60,000, and by a previous order of court were consolidated into one case.

The receiver has already paid out to depositors and creditors of the bank about ninety-five per cent. of their claims, and the stockholders claim that they are entitled to be paid by the directors.

MOMMSEN'S DEATH GAME PEACEFULLY

Germany's Dean of Learned Men Passed Away Near Berlin at Age of Eighty-Six.

BERLIN, Nov. 1 .- Professor Theodo: Mommsen, the historian, died at Charlotstommson, the natorian, ded at Charlot-tenburg at a quarter before nine this morning. He passed away without regains ing consciousness. The change from life to death was observed only by his at-tending physician, who watched all night tending physical, who watered art hight long with the family.

The United States Ambassador, Mr. Charlemagna Tower, and other foreign-Ambassadors here, us well as a numbell of Cabinet Ministers, called at the Mommi-sen residence this morning to inquire how the sick man was and were informed that he was dead.

sen residence this morthing to make the sick man was and were informed that he was dead.

Emperor William and several of the lesser German sovereigns have sent their condolences to the Mommen family.

Theedor Mommen was of Danish birth, his father being pastor of Gardin, in Schleswig, There he was born eighty-siz years ago, in 1817. Educated at Altona and Klei-Tintversity, he was enabled by a grant from the Danish government to make a journey in Italy, where he began the study of Roman inscriptions and laid the foundation of the profound knowledge of Roman institutions which made him the greatest of modern historians of Italy's development leading up to the times of the Caesara.

Like Molike, whose earliest years belonged to Denmark, Mommen became one of the was as supreme as the soldier was in military strategy.

His "History of Rome," on which his popular fame will chiefly rest, appeared in three clumes between the years 15% and 1255. It was written in Switzerland, where, like other Germans, he had found an asylum after the roubles of 1565, when he was dismissed from is professorship for a protest which he, while upporting the monarchy, made sgainst 'he overnment's severity towards its opponents. At Geneva a publisher, whose daughter he narried, made the suggestion that he should undertake the Roman history. He was already recognized as the first authority on inscriptions; the history gave him a wide literary reputation. His characterization of such figures as Ciccro, Fompy and Cassar was bold and striking, sweeping aside many accepted views.

The book even had its influence in aiding the movement for the unification of Germany under the hegemany of Prussia, though Monnare in himself, in the Prussian Chamber of Deputies, where he was a member of the national liberal party, was a strongly pronounced opponent of every form of Caesarism. He refused to how the knee to Bismarck, and a speech of his against that statesman's policy brought upon him a prosscution, but he was triumphantly acquitted.

THE WOODS FULL OF GUNNERS YESTERDAY

The hunting season in this State open

The hunting season in this State opened yesterday and the woods were full of gunners literally all day. In all the cities along the railroad lines hunters with strings of setters and pointers, and with guns and ammunition, were leaving for the fields to take a crack at the whirring, scurrying Bob Whites, and many a one fell before the marksman's sim. But many more did not fall, much to the surprise of the man who has been smashing clay targets. The bassage cars along the lines of the Norfolk and Western and many of the other roads were pretty well filled up with dogs, which are hauled free during the bunting season. It is probable that theusands of people went bird shooting yesterday. Birds are said to be very abundant almost everywhere. Quall on toast will soon cease to be a high priced luxury.

Receiver Calls Ship-Yard Trust Fraudulent Organization for Wholesale Plunder.

GAVE AWAY MANY MILLIONS

Suit is Urged Against Schawb and Others Who Got Stock in Wrecked Corporation Without Paying for It.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.). NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Organization and lotation of the wrecked United States Shipbuilding Company—otherwise the Ship-yard Trust—is defined as an "artistic windle," designed for "wholesale plunder," in the report of the receiver James Smith, Jr. That report was filed in the United States Circuit Court of New Jersey Saturday, Deliberate misstatements, falsification and fraud of various kinds, in an attempt to mislead and deceive the investing public, and in a plan to wreck the ing public, and in a plan to wreck the corporation, was charged by the receiver. Charles M. Schwab's sale of the Bethlehem steel plant to the Shipyards Trustor, rather, his "taking over" of the trust, is exposed. Suit against Schwab, as well as against other promoters and venders of constituent companies who received stock without paying full value for it, is one of the strong recommendations as a plan of reilef. of relief. SECRETS OF AN ARTISTIC SWINDLE.

Organization being described as an "ar-tistic swindle," these allegations are set out:

That the value of plants, their earnings and working capital, given in alleged thorough reports of experts, vary so much from actual figures "as to impell the belief that the figures were wilfully missisted."
That it is extremely doubtful if the experts" valuations were submitted at the organization of the corporation, which was effected by "dimmry" stockholders, directors and orfice of June 11822, were more worth only 11.415.516 the Taking up the company by way of John Company by "dummy" directors and officers in June, 1902, with $3,000 capital, Receiver Smith tells of the offer of John W. Young, promoter, to sell to it the Union Iron Works, of San Francisco; the Harlam and Hollingsworth Company, of Wilmington, Del.; the Eastern Shipbuilding Company, the Crascent Shippard Company, of New Jorssey; the Bath Iron Works and the Hethlehem Steel Company, of Malne, and the Bethlehem Steel Company, of Pennsylvania.

"BOYS" BUY MANY PLANTS.
That offer, of course, was accepted by the so-called "boy directors"—Howard K. Wood, Howard S. Gould and Kennet K. McLaren, of Jersey City. They held colectively fifteen shares each of common and preferred stock. Then it is told how the "boys" added to their number Frederick K. Seward, Raymond Newman and Louis B. Daily, all employes of the Corporation Trust Company, of New Jersey.

ROBBED OF $3,000.

Cashier Was Held-Up While Preparing His Pay-Roll.

Preparing His Pay-Roll.

(By Associated Press.)

NASHVILLE, TENN., Nov. 2.—Two heavily armed men held up Emil Wheeler, assistant cashier in the office of the Cumberland Telephone and fleiegraph Company, at 5 o'clock this morning and secured $5,000 in money.

Mr. Wheoler reached the office about 1:30 for the purpose of working on his monthly pay-roll, and was in the act of gatting the currency out of the office safe when a man behind him commanded him to keep quiet and presented a pistol Wheeler sought to release himself, but was struck over the head with a billy and momentarily stunned.

A second man put in his appearance at this time and ritled the safe, while his companion kept guard over the assistant cashier. Both men escaped, holding the cashier off with revolvers. Several operators, the engineer and the night watchman were in the building at the time, but none of them knew of the robbery until Wheeler raised the alarm.

came from that diy to Richmond, and it is understood that his sole surviving relative, a cousin, is living in that city. Mr. Clapp came to Richmond in 1856 to become the organist of the Brist Presbyterian Church, then under the ministry of Dr. Moore. He hold that position until a year ago, when he retired upon a salary. During many years past he has occupied rooms at No. 418 West Franklin Street. It was here that he died.

For some menths Mr. Clapp has been failing in health. He was seventy-one years of age.

Though coming here from the very center of the hottest abolition section, Mr. Clapp sided with the Confederacy during the war and held a government position. He was not in the field, so far as any one here now remembers.

Mr. Clapp was one of the charter members of the Westmoreland Club and one of its most active and enthusiastic supporters. He was an active and bright Mason. He became past master of Richmond Commandery, No. 2. Since the war he passed a peaceable, uneventual life, teaching a music class during the week and playing the organ on Sunday. He did not seek to know many; but those who broke through the quiet resore of his nature esteemed him highly.
